

FACTS AND TIPS

Did you know achieving the ultimate lawn can be very hard on your trees and shrubs? It's True: often times the continual TLC we give our lawns is a primary reason we have wilting trees or insect problems such as scale. When you understand how lawn treatments impact trees and shrubs you'll then have a greater knowledge of how best to care for them when problems arise in your landscape.

Tough year for trees? It's been a tough year for everything growing in the landscape. Strange weather in the spring (like 85 degrees in March), quick storms in the summer, and more rain run-off than absorption in the soils. Bug problems so bad they made for major news stories; 3 times in the paper and twice we know of on local TV channels. Drought conditions, then throw in a couple of tornados, add in some unforgiving humidity and you can bet that trees and shrubs have some challenges ahead.

DON'T LET YOUR TREES WILT AWAY: Deep Root Fertilizing, Watering, and Soil Amending this fall may be the difference between live trees and shrubs or dead ones in your landscape next spring. Also, keep watering your landscape as late as possible this fall. Although the weather may turn cool, your trees and shrubs need all the moisture protection they can get before winter sets in. Have you tried digging in your yard this year, dry, dry and then still dry. The roots of your landscape need help.

PROPER EXAMINATION IS EVERYTHING: Don't panic or let solicitors put fear in you while taking money from your wallet. They will tell you there's no hope for your landscape unless you buy their services, (which they seem to tell everyone the same services). GET THE FACTS, CALL BRANCH TREE SERVICE. While new clients pay our $50.00 minimal examination fee, YOU'RE OUR CLIENT, SO YOUR EXAMINATION IS FREE!

Penny wise and pound foolish could never be more applicable than when it comes to your trees and shrubs. Curing a sick tree maybe a small price to pay when compared to removing a dead one.
